

Training document is available via the link here at the right side →
By accessing the link, you agree that you have read the text below and follow our recommendations about safety. Everybody who will use our methods is also familiar with the tool and/or read at least the user manual(s).

In our technical documentation, we expect users to first read, understand and apply our safety training. Please go through the safety links on the right side first. →

In the videos, we use as less spoken or written language possible, instead we use universal icons. The explanation of these icons can be found in the Icon library link on the right →
